Plus, it's very expensive. 10 So a real frying pan would have been much cheaper, I guess. It depends what you want to do with the mobile phone – frying eggs or having a phone conversation.

1 Listen, this is what the company says about the heating problem of the mobile phone. 2 The first thing to do is to check the battery. 3 The second thing is to visit a customer's shop as soon as possible. 4 The third proposal is to be patient and wait for the repairs. 5 The fourth piece of advice is to stay calm and not to phone your friends, even if it is hard. Instead you could just say hello from face to face without phoning. 6 The fifth and last thing is to trust the company. 7 This sort of public relations is a bit complicated, I guess. 8 Yes, you are right. They have a famous brand, but a lousy customer service. 9 If you ask me: All great companies have lousy customer services. 10 Well, maybe not all, but in modern times much more than you might expect.

1 Where have you hidden the crisps, John? 2 They should be in a basket in front of the fridge. 3 There isn't a basket in front of the fridge. 4 Which room are you in? 5 The room near the living room. Your kitchen, I guess. 6 On the left hand side or on the right hand side? 7 I am on the left hand side. 8 This explains the problem. You are not in my kitchen. You are in my sleeping room. 9 No, I am not. I am in your kitchen. There was the chocolate on the table and there is even a fridge, and there is not any bed. 10 Oh, yes, there is a bed! The thing you think is my fridge is my folding bed. I am sorry. I have chocolate on every table in the house. So you have to change rooms.

Lesson 20:

1 What is the time, sir? 2 I beg your pardon, sir? 3 I have just asked you what time it is. 4 I make it ten past ten. 5 That is weird. My watch says ten to ten. 6 So your watch is slow. 7 But this is very unlikely. My watch is never slow. 8 And my watch is never fast. 9 Hey, kid. Can you tell us the exact time with your smartphone? 10 It is ten o'clock, sirs. 11 So we are both wrong. How annoying!
